Missouri Hall Peer Advisers, Associate College Professors and the Hall Manager enforced residential hall rules and served as academic advisers for their residents. They also sponsored seminars about personal, college, political and world issues such as assault, world peace and study habits. This group worked to solve the everyday problems and situations which involved residents. ACP Keith Pavlischek and his family lived in the hall for diversity.

The National Association for the Education of Young Children promoted appropriate processes of child development and advocated quality programming, availability and affordability of children's facilities. On the national level, the organization lobbied on the behalf of family-oriented issues, such as quality day care centers. The campus group co-sponsored a Children's Health and Safety Fair with Planned Parenthood during the fall. Members met once a month.

The National Education Association was a student program based through the National Organization of Education. It was a politically based organization which helped teachers deal with problems in today's educational system. The group served to inform members about upcoming bonds, provide insurance for teachers and provide legal counsel in liability cases. The programs sponsored by the group allowed its members to prepare for the teaching profession.
